MR. BROWN, OF GRACE CHURCH, N. Y .-A correspondent of a Troy paper has busied himself of late with observations of some of those who make money while the winter blasts do blow. The caterer for dinners from $1,000 to $100, with $75 or $100 for music, and a commission on the patrouage of customers, tailors, hair dressers, etc., which he has quiety manipulated, is described as one of a very industrious class. His own attendance on an evening's entertainment is worth $10 or $20. He says "the chief functionary in this line is the noted Brown, who for twenty years had no nval." He alludes to Brown, the sexton of Grace Church, and says it is Brown's fluokeyism which makes him a success, as he is immensely corpulent, besides being uncouth and rough in personal appearance. He thus de-

serites Brown's methods:
"Brown came to New York a poor carpenter and worked for a while at his trade, but he was too heavy for ordinary service, and he had an ambition to rise above a bench and chest of tools. He got into politics, and managed to secure the berth of inspector of Hacks, which led him into acquaintance with those who patronize the vehicles on midnight occasions. About that time Grace Church was removed up town, and became the center of religious fashion. Brown was successful in getting the office of sexton, and then he rightly calculated that his fortune was made. He became a moneyed man, and was proud to display at all times large sums in his possession. He was enabled to keys a tax on all who desired the entree of fashionable life. The music and the refreshments as well as the waiters could thus assist in the revenue, while all young gentleman who were fearful of being neglected in with a ten-dollar note. This leads me to remark that a man in Brown's position can do much toward introducing a young man to fashionable society. Brown can furnish guests as well as superintend an entertainment. When an ambitious lady is making out her listland giving cards to Brown, who often circulates the invitations, he can suggest the names of his clients, and thus get them into the favored circle. Many a young man has owed his entrance into the ring of tashionable dissipation, "where mischief | $6 lurks in gay disguise," to the influence of this very Isaac H. Brown.

the invitation list could help Brown's memory

THE CATCH OF SEALS .- The outfit for the Newfoundland seal fishery this year promises | $6 to be unusually large. The fleet will number twenty-one steamers, with but few sailing vessels, and probably from nine to ten thousand men will embark this year for the ice-fields. A correspondent writing to a Halifax paper, facts relating to the business and the habits of the seal, whose fur is so much sought for. The Arctic current, setting south of Baffin's Bay, at this season of the year floats on its surface those huge ice fields, two or three hundred miles in breadth, and of an unknown length, on which the seals bring forth their young. The mother seals deposit their young in these icy cradles about the middle of February.

speevish or uncomfortable. The mother seals fish all around during the day, and return at intervals to suckle their young, each having an weeks from their birth they are in the best condition for being taken, and the oil obtained from their plump bodies is then of the finest quality. The aim of the seal-hunter is to reach them when in this condition, about the middle or end of March. From the island the seating vessels take their departure as soon as possible after the 1st of March, and steering northeast dash in among the ice-fields, and beat about in search of the young innocents, lying in herds, or "patches," as the sealers phrase it, over a large area of ice. The young seals are killed by a slight blow on the nose, and then the hunter "sculps" them with his knife-that is, takes off the skin with the thick layer of fat adhering to it-leaving the carcase on the ice.

Grave fears are entertained by some lest the employment, of so many steamers may ruin the fishery, and ultimately lead to the extermination of the seal, as in the case of the South Sea fisheries. This is a hazardous business at the best, and frequently those who lose their capital in it lose their all.

MARDI-GRAS IN NEW ORLEANS. - The Mardi gras festivities took place in New Orleans Tuesday. All business was suspended.

The procession of the King of Carnival, which commenced moving at one o'clock, was very large, comprising among its numbers three full battalions, one of Egyptians, one of Arabs, the King's Own, and another of Mamelukes, and the Royal Navy, consisting of the Yacht Club of the Crescent City. The Yacht Club was mounted on trucks.

A tremendous crowd of miscellaneous maskers, with all kinds of devices and tricks of the Guild, concluded the procession. It was two hours passing. The streets were crowded with people from all parts of the country, some afoot and some in vehicles. The Mystic Krewe of Comus paraded in the evening. It was the finest display they have ever yet given, consisting of more than two hundred figures, all in most elaborate and artistic columns. The subject was Darwin's origin of the species and the missing links in the chain of natural selection. The pegeant began with the Zooplytes sponge and ended with the gorilla. The representations were admirable, having been prepared in

> Mr. Samuel H. Lunt: For about five years I have been suffering with a terrible cough. Nothing prescribed for it seemed to relieve it in the least. Some months ago I secured one of "Cutler's Pocket Inhalago I secured one of Cutter's Tocket Inhar-ents." It caused almost instant relief. After using it for a few weeks so marked was the im-provement in my cough, that it was noticed by all my friends, and by many with whom I had but a slight acquaintance. Most heartly do I recommend its use to all who are similarly affeeted. Very truly yours, ORGANIC WEAKNESS. Immediately cured and Full Vigor Restored.

This distressing Affection—which renders life miserable and marriage impossible—is the miserable and marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by the victims of improper indulgencies. Young persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadily consequences that may ensue. Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that understands the subject will pretend to dery that the natural powers are lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent?
Besides being deprived of the pleasure of healthy
